TRAVEL ITINERARY

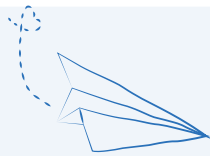

CLIMB MOUNT KAZBEK

Kazbek (5033 m), is one of the highest and most beautiful mountains of Caucasus. It is located in the East part of Central Caucasus, in Georgia. As Elbrus, Kazbek also is extinct volcano which is clearly appreciable from its conic form with distinctive remains of ancient gigantic crater.

Technically Kazbek is not difficult for climbing. The Normal route is PD, mostly glacier walking, except the crux which is 100 m of easy ice climbing in the couloir below the summit (not steeper than 40 deg.)

There are many tales, legends and interesting historical facts about this mountain. The legend refers to some more distant times when after the quarrel in Heaven, because of the stolen fire Prometheus was chained to the rock. This rock was Kazbek.
